

STABILIZATION OF THE CONSEQUENCES OF MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS MS

This disease of the nerves can touch all of us. It radically affects the personal life, changes the family bonds and alters the relationship with friends. In addition, work is often permanently disrupted.

Disabilities are different from one person to another; this lesion is atypical from the conventional picture of a sickness. The grave uncertainty affects the lives of people and weighs heavily on every day.

Imbalance, discordance and disharmony, heavy arguments and disagreements often accompany this trauma. The people concerned suffer extremely from the effects of Multiple Sclerosis; they have panic attacks, they lose their goal of life and consequently depressions are building up and they destroy the relationships with others. An incomprehensible aggression may be an inevitable result of the shock.

Powerful drugs are repeatedly distributed and injections administered daily to support the mental and physical balance. Side effects are unfortunately unavoidable.

With specified AYURVEDA cures, a stabilization can be obtained. However, a serious treatment of the nerve center is essential. Deep tissue massages and manipulations adjust the flow of energy. Therapeutic yoga and exact movement therapies are recommended to help to find the balance of body, mind and soul.

The mobility is redirected and the therapies of Ayurveda with herbal medicines reconnect and accelerate the formation of healthy cells.

A diet is extremely important and helps the patient from the start of his journey to discover himself. Strict control of habits, also including food and drinks, and a firm timing of every day, is prescribed. It is imperative to follow the given rules!

To get the best result, it is advisable to start soonest with Ayurveda treatments after receiving the diagnosis of Multiple Sclerosis. However, even with advanced symptoms, a stabilization or even an improvement can be obtained.
